THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

The following eighty-three men were present at some time during the Thirtieth Anniversary: Atkinson, Bentley, Bigelow, Brewster, Burdett, Bunker, Burr, Bush, Cabot, Caner, Chittenden, W. D. Clark, Cogswell, Coulson, Darling, DeBlois, Downer, Durfee, Ellis, Everett, Faxon, Goodwin, Grew, Gunther, Hathaway, Hight, W. T. Hodges, Holliday, Homans, Hunneman, Hunter, Huntress, Jellinek, Jennings, Joline, King, Kilvert, Girby, Knapp, Lane, Latimer, Lee, Litchfield, Mandell, Marquand, Marvin, Maynadier, Merrill, Moore, Morgan, Morse, Naumburg, Newell, Olmsted, Perkins, Perry, Phelps, Potter, Prescott, Proctor, Raymond, Reynolds, Richards, Richardson, Ropes, Saltonstall, Saunders, Sears, Shuman, Slattery, Sleeper, Stone, Swain, Taylor, F. W. Thayer, W. H. Thayer, Townsend, Trafford, C. Warren, Wengren, Whitney, Whitridge, Woodbury.

There were present on Field Day at the Hoosic-Whisick Club, 67 men and the Class Baby. At the Dinner at the University Club, Boston, on the evening of Commencement Day, 66 men being present, Trafford presided, Moore acted as Toastmaster, and speeches were made by Cabot, Kilvert, Morgan, Proctor, Whitridge and the Class Secretary.

In July 1919 a copy of the Thirtieth Anniversary Class Report was sent to the business address of each member of the Class, whose address was known. Anyone who did not receive his copy should notify the Class Secretary, 1527 18th St., Washington, D. C.

CLASS NEWS.

I. Babbitt has been elected a Member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

A. S. Barret has been appointed by the Governor of Kentucky on a Commission of five to make a survey of the public educational system of Kentucky and recommendations for its possible improvement.

P. Bartholow is doing editorial work of a technical character and is living in New York.

R. E. Bassett (formerly Ralph Waldo Emerson Bassett) died at Louisville, Ky., July 18th, 1919. He was the son of Albert and Sarah Elizabeth (Shoemaker) Bassett of Salem, N. J., and was born January 25th, 1866, near Woodstown, N. J. After attending the public schools of Salem, N. J., he was a special student at Harvard from 1885 to 1888 and entered College as a regular member of the Class of 1889, in the fall of 1888. He was a teacher of Modern Languages at Belmont School, Mass., 1890-92; Instructor in German and French at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., 1892-93; student at Paris in Romance Philology and French, 1893-97; Acting Instructor in Modern Languages, New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., 1894-95. He was acting Professor of Modern Languages, at the College of Charleston, S. C., 1895-97; Instructor in Romance Languages, Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., 1897-99; Instructor in Romance Languages, College for Women of Western Reserve University Cleveland, Ohio, 1899-1900. From 1900 to 1903, he was Assistant Professor of Romance Languages, University of Missouri, Columbus, Mo.; from 1903 to 1906, he was Assistant Professor and, from 1906 to 1911, Associate Professor of Romance Languages, University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan. From 1911 he was Professor of Romance Languages at the University of Cincinnati, which position he held until the time of his death. Bassett's special interest was the study and teaching of the Spanish Language, and his magnum opus was an extremely able Grammar of the Spanish Language, published in 1913-1914. He married at Lawrence, Kansas, June 16, 1907, Miss Lillie May Palmer, who survives him. Bassett's death was due largely to overwork.

C. C. Batchelder is United States Trade Commissioner and Commercial Attachee at Pekin, China.

A. C. Bent has had his "Life Histories of North American Diving Birds" published by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

G. C. Bullard is now connected with The Industrial Company, of Boston, Mass., in the business of management of industrial companies and making examinations, audits and reports, and aiding in financing.

W. B. Bentley writes that he is out of the army and "back at the old stand and in the old rut; am likely to stay."

G. T. Burrows died October 21, 1916 at Louisville, Ky. He has been among the "lost men" and the Secretary has learned now for the first time of his death. He was born at Montpelier, Vt., December 22, 1865; the son of George Baxter and Alma (Thompson) Burrows. After attending school at Phillip's Exeter, he entered Harvard in the fall of 1885 and graduated with the Class. He entered the Harvard Law School but was compelled to leave after six months owing to ill health. He received a degree of L. L. D. in 1892 at the Wisconsin University Law School. He practised law in Chicago from 1893 to 1897, in the Law Department of the Illinois Steel Company; in 1898, he practised in New York with William Wallace MacFarland. In 1899, he left New York owing to ill health and returned to Chicago. Later he became Kentucky representative of the Knapp Co., of New York; and in 1914 he was connected with the Shedd-Wright Manufacturing Co., of Minneapolis, Minn. He resided for sometime at Owensboro, Ky., He married Miss Vida Celeste Kosure at Owensboro, Ky., March 9, 1909.

R. C. Cabot was appointed in January, 1920, Professor of Social Ethics, Harvard College; he has retired from private practice, but continues his Hospital work and his teaching work at the Harvard Medical School.

R. L. Curran whose name appears in the Class Report in the list of "Lost Men" has been reported to the Class Secretary by a Classmate as dead. Does anyone know the facts as to this?

C. E. Curry who returned in the summer of 1919 from Munich, Bavaria, where he has been living for over twenty-five years, returned in the fall temporarily to Switzerland to bring back his family.

Herbert Henry Darling died at Brookline, Mass., March 26, 1920. He was born Nov. 21, 1864 at Troy, N. Y., the son of Henry H. and Caroline Cady (Martin) Darling. After studying at the Troy High School, he entered college in the fall of 1885, where he soon became one of the most prominent and active members of the Class. He was the Summer Prize Essayist in 1888; took final honors in History; was an Editor of the Crimson and of the Advocate; a Director and Vice-President of the Harvard Dining Association; a Member of the Freshman Glee Club; the Glee Club; the Chapel Choir; Institute of 1770; Hasty Pudding; O. K. Signet; Finance Club; English Club; Deutscher Verein; Historical Society. In Senior year, he was elected a member of the Class Committee and served also as Class Treasurer until his death; and in 1918, he was elected by the Class as Chairman of the Class Committee on the death of F. E. Parker. He received the degree of L. L. B. in the Harvard Law School in 1891. After graduation he practised law in Boston. He was Secretary of the Harvard Musical Association from 1899 and one of the founders and Secretary of the Harvard Alumni Chorus from 1910.

He was a member of the Union and Harvard Clubs in Boston and of the Republican Club of Massachusetts. No man in the Class has performed such long-continued, faithful, able and enthusiastic service for the Class as Bert Darling. His own words in the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Report expressed truly but very incompletely, how closely felt were the ties that bound him. "My greatest pleasure has been my work as a member of the Class Committee and as Class Treasurer." He then wrote: "I wish that I could explain what I mean when I say that I have a feeling of intimacy with the Class as a whole which has been a constant inspiration." No one realizes better than the Class Secretary what an enormous amount of time and pains Bert devoted to the Class and what a joy to him it was to do so. Much of the success of our reunions has been due to his organizing ability and capacity, both in the large matters and in the details. His sense of responsibility was of the highest; his sympathies were broad; his human interest in all members of the Class; his ideals for the College and college men were fine; and his mastery over himself was full. The College and the Class have lost a noble servant. Ropes officiated at the funeral services; and on Easter Day, a few days later, a tribute of flowers from the Class was sent to Mrs. Darling, who wrote to the Secretary a touching appreciation of how much the Class had meant in the life of her husband and of her and his own recognition of what the Class had done for him.

L. Davies has been elected president of St. David's Society, Oshkosh, Wis.

C. B. Davenport has edited a series of Government publications on the physique of our military population as indicated by the examination of 2,500,000 selective draft men.

G. L. DeBlois is a member of the Board of Managers of the Farm and Trade School at Thompson's Island.

R. N. Durfee was awarded in April, 1919, the Honor Medal of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers "for his earnest, disinterested and effective efforts to bring about better methods for the financing and warehousing of cotton," during the war.

G. V. Gray whose name has been on the list of "lost men" is residing at 2945 Magnolia Street, Berkley, California. Owing to ill health, he has been retired from the active mining business for several years.

M. S. Gerstle was discharged from the U. S. Army as Major, Oct. 15, 1919.

P. F. Hall has published "The Harrison Case" in Proc. Amer. Soc. for Psychical Research (March, 1920): he is a member of the Executive Committee of the Fabian Society of Boston, 1919-20.

G. H. Holliday has been chosen District Deputy Grand Master for the 2nd Masonic District in Massachusetts.

M. D. Hull has been chosen as a member of the Class Committee of 1889 by the Committee appointed by the Class last Commencement, consisting of Darling, King, Warren and Trafford, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of F. E. Parker. He has accepted the position. He is Chairman of the Committee on Chicago and Cook County at the Illinois State Constitutional Convention now sitting in Springfield, Ill.

L. Hulley was a candidate for the nomination for Governor of Florida, this Spring but was defeated. The Florida newspapers mentioned him as sponsor for a major portion of the labor legislation which passed the Senate during the recent session of the legislature; he also was an enthusiastic supporter of the child welfare and good roads movements, and favored free schools and free text books. He also delivered an address before the Bar Association on "The Proper Revision of the Present Constitution of Florida." His son, Benjamin M. Hulley is now at Oxford University on a Rhodes scholarship; his daughter, Louise Hulley (A. M. Radcliffe) was Dean of Women at John B. Stetson University in 1919. His daughter, Mary (A. B. Univ. of Minn.) will attend one of the colleges for women at Oxford, next year.

W. L. Jennings has published "The Preparation of Cyanogen Chloride" in Jour. Amer. Chemical Soc. XLI (Aug. 1919) embodying the results of work done for the Gas Warfare Service.

J. G. King's son, J. G. King, Jr., has been chosen as Class Poet for the 1920 Class Day.

R. G. Leavitt has been elected Chairman of a Committee on Normal Schools and has prepared for the Child Health Organization of America, a report on the training of prospective teachers of hygiene, which will shortly be published. He has published "Bird Study in Elementary Schools," in Bulletin No. 4, National Association of Audobon Societies.

W. R. Marsh has been elected president of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland; he has also been appointed a member of the College Examination Board for the same district.

C. C. McGehee has been elected by the City Council of Atlanta, a trustee of Grady Hospital; he has also been made a director of Atlantic Steel Co., of Atlanta, Ga.

J. D. Merrill is Editor of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin and a Director of the Harvard Alumni Association.

J. D. Morgan received the degree of L. L. D. from the University of Cambridge, England, October 31, 1919, being termed in the presentation, amongst other things, "imperil Britannici adiutorem atque amicum insignem."

W. D. Munro has been elected president of the following corporations: American Window Glass Co., American Window Glass Machine Co., Window Glass Machine Co., Empire Machine Co.

W. H. Pear has been elected a Member of the National Council of the Unitarian Laymen's League, and was representative of that body to deliver an address at the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of Meadville Theological School (Pa.), June 3, 1920.

G. Perry has retired from the practice of law and has opened an office in Boston for the sale of investment securities, being associated with A. E. Fithin & Co., members of the N. Y. Stock Exchange.

George Turner Phelps died at Cambridge, Mass., February 26, 1920, after a painful illness of several years. He was born in Melrose, Mass., December 18, 1867; was son of Charles Alanson and Letitia (Frost) Phelps. After studying at the Chelsea High School, he entered college in the fall of 1885, remaining with the Class until the end of the Sophomore year. Graduated as a member of the Class of 1891 (receiving his degree out of course in 1893) but always retained his affiliations with the Class of 1889. From 1891 to 1903, he taught music and kindred subjects. He was the founder and director of the Boston Singing Club in 1901-1903. From 1903 to 1906, he lectured on music and art. After 1907, he devoted his life to developing his original and unique ideas in Aesthetics, Psychology, Visual Design and Acoustics. While a pianist and singer of ability and a talented music teacher, he was also a writer of much individuality both of prose and verse, and he termed his own occupation in life as that of a "creative educator and author." His late years though full of suffering were also filled with much active work and thought along his original lines, and the great cheer and optimism with which he continued his investigations and in ventions marked a noble though eccentric character. He was unmarried.

J. D. Prindle, Jr's name appears in the Class Report in the list of "Lost Men". This is a mistake. His address continues to be Parker House, Boston, Mass.

G. A. Reisner wrote to the Secretary, in April 1919, the following interesting account (received too late for publication) in the Thirtieth Anniversary Report of the work of his "Eighth year of exile, all spent in the Nile Valley in the service of Harvard and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, as Director of the Point Egyptian Expedition."

"We are detained at the small village of el-Kurruw by the greatest of our discoveries in the Sudan. But even if we wanted to return to Egypt, the rioters have cut the road behind us and we would be obliged to stay. So we are having an experience of Sudan weather such as we never had before. The nights are fairly cool but about 9 or 10 A. M. a hot wind begins to blow from the northwest and by noon, it is a blast from a furnace blowing half a gale. In the shade, the temperature is about 109 to 112 but the wind is hotter. I go to bed at 9 and get up at 5 as the morning is the only time when one can work out of doors. I say doors, but of course there are no "doors," only a hut (three rooms) with a mud and reed roof and tents. At Nuri, about 20 miles upstream of this place we found in 1916-1917, the tombs of 20 kings and 73 royal ladies of the hitherto little known Ethiopia monarchy. Here at el-Kurruw, we have found the pyramids of the founders of the monarchy, kings named Piankhy, Shabaka, and Shabataka, who conquered Egypt and are known as the Egyptian XXVth dynasty. We have also found the tombs of their ancestors, their queens and their horses. It was curious custom they introduced of cutting the throats of their favorite horses and bury them upright in all their trappings at the funeral of the king. From this scorched village at the furthest end of the Egyptian province of Ethiopia, a local family by the personal qualities of their headmen conquered the Nile Valley, ruled over the whole of the Delta, and actually attempted to dispute the mastery of Syria with the Sinevites. The sixth king was driven out of Egypt by Assurbanipal and the rest contented themselves with Ethiopia. Our expedition has found and excavated the tombs of all the kings and queens of Ethiopia from 750 B. C. to after 300 B. C., a total of 25 successive kings and 87 royal ladies belonging to them. This is just about "the record" for royal tombs found by one expedition. To me personally, the historical results put the culmination on my work in the Sudan and are very satisfying. The finds when they are divided will also add to the great collection we are making for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The objects which we have obtained illustrating the arts and handicrafts of Ethiopia can never be duplicated by any one else. They are all royal objects and there are no more royal tombs unexcavated. So here I have been basking in the sun quite contentedly. But the work is about finished. I expect the Governor of the Province to send his steamer which he very kindly lends us occasionally, on Saturday to help us shift camp to railroad at Kareima. There we have a camp at Gebel Barkal where I want to work for a few days or until the railway to Cairo is open to traffic once more. The Governor, Col. H. W. Jackson Pasha, is a model of a white administrator in a black country should be. It is a great sight to see the people welcome him when he visits a village, the small boys waving sticks and crying "ibsher bekher" (welcome), the women ullulating their shrill cheer, and the girls dancing. The village elders come well to the fore with outstretched hand-clasps and comfortable smiles. I have often heard them cheer him at a distance passing on his steamer."

*W. F. Richards is president of the Colorado Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

H. L. Russell died on April 11, 1917, but the fact of his death has only been recently learned by the Secretary. He was born at Buckfield, Me., February 13, 1865, the son of George Washington and Phoebe Ellen (Green) Russell. After studying at the Norway (Maine) High School, he entered College in the fall of 1885. Since graduation he has been a school teacher, first at Hill Academy, Redding, Conn., then at Chamberlin Institute, Randolph, N. Y., and from 1892 at Owego Free Academy, Owego, N. Y., and since 1901 its Principal. In 1910 he was elected Vice-President of the New York State Classical Teachers Association and delivered an address on "Some Problems in First Year Latin." He was married to Miss Katherine Louise Adams at Owego, N. Y., on June 30, 1897.

G. B. Salisbury has consolidated his business firm of Salisbury & Worth with Edey, Leslie & Sloan and is doing business as Salisbury, Worth & Sloan, brokers, at 74 Broadway, New York City.

Philip Leverett Saltonstall died at Boston, Mass., November 15, 1919, after a long illness. He was born May 4, 1867, at Chestnut Hill, Mass.; son of Leverett and Rose Smith (Lee) Saltonstall. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School, and entered as a special student in the fall of 1885 and graduated a regular member of the Class of 1889. While in college he was a member of the Institute of 1770, D. K. E., Zeta Psi, Hasty Pudding, Porcellian; also of the Tariff Reform Association and the Sparring Association. After graduation Saltonstall was for eight years with the Thomson-Houston Electric Company. He then joined the firm of Tucker, Anthony & Company, bankers and brokers, and continued a member of that firm until his death. During his business career, he was particularly interested in the creation and financing of public utilities and was an officer and director in many important corporations, including the Northwestern Power Co., the Kansas City Clay County and St. Joseph R. R., Manchester (N. H.) Traction Light & Power Co., Great Northern Power Co., Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction Co., Massachusetts Electric Companies, American Trust Co., and Bay State Trust Co. Outside his business, he was especially interested in matters dealing with the welfare of children and was President and Director of the Children's Island Sanitarium and Vice-President and Director of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. He was also a Trustee of Massachusetts General Hospital. At one time, he held the office of Treasurer of the Democratic Town Committee of Milton, his home town. He was a member of the Somerset, Exchange and Harvard Clubs of Boston, the Milton Club and Hoosick Whisick Club of Milton, the Eastern Yacht Club and the Harvard Club of New York. The Class of 1889 owed much to Philip Saltonstall. Possessed of a generous heart, unfailing tact, a cheery nature and a rare charm of manner, he endeared himself to all his classmates and did much to bring together the various elements and factions in the Class and to make of it a united whole. At Class gatherings, which he never missed except for unavoidable reasons, his enthusiasm, genial good nature, exuberant spirits and kindly efforts to make every one feel happy and at ease, contributed in no small degree to the success of these occasions. Few were permitted to realize the intense physical discomfort and suffering which in his later years he endured with such courageous fortitude and such cheerful self-forgetfulness, so characteristic of the man. The Class of '89 has lost a loyal member and a good friend. For the friends whose privilege it was to obtain an occasional glimpse of his home life, the sweetness and tenderness of his bearing to those dear to him, as well as his gracious hospitality to all who crossed his threshold, will ever remain a happy memory. Saltonstall was married on June 18, 1890 at Milton, Mass., to Miss Frances Anna Fitch Sherwood, and had six children, Katherine, Rose Lee, Frances Sherwood, Mary Elizabeth, Philip Leverett, Jr., and Nathaniel. His wife and all his children survive him, except Mary Elizabeth, who died February 24, 1901. His eldest child Katherine, born April 10 1891, is the beloved Class Baby of 1889; and is the mother of the first Class grandchild and of four other Class grandchildren. No '89 man present at the successive reunions will ever forget the pardonable pride, so sympathetically shared by his Classmates, with which Saltonstall presented his daughter, first as a baby, then as a little girl, later as a grown maiden, and still later as a gracious mother.

A wreath was sent to the funeral, in behalf of the Class and the Secretary later received from Mrs. Saltonstall a letter addressed to the Class, acknowledging with much feeling the Class tribute, and stating Phil's love for the Class.

C. G. Schroll is now in Memphis, Tennessee.

L. F. Snow is now Associate Professor of English at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

G. Strong was Major, Field Artillery, from October to December, 1918.

C. A. Wait has been elected director and secretary of The Art Institute at Decatur, Ill.

R. DeC. Ward has been elected the first President of the American Metereological Society; he has published 15 articles on climatology and immigration in Geographical Review; Review of Reviews; Monthly Weather Review; Scientific Monthly; Journal of Heredity.

G. F. Weld was elected in Dec. 1919, Secretary of the Point Hope Association—an organization with a membership extending throughout the United States formed to maintain religious, educational and medical work among the inhabitants of Arctic Alaska.

J. E. Whitney is a trustee of the Franklin Savings Bank of Boston, a director of the Newburyport Public Library, and treasurer and vestryman of St. Paul's Church, Newburyport.

R. S. Wilder is medical consultant for the Ocean Accident Company in New York City.

The following members of the Class attended the meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs, held in Washington, D. C., April 30-May 1, 1920: Hooper, Jellinek, Trafford, C. Warren, Whitridge. C. Warren was a member of the Washington Executive Committee of Arrangements.

Proctor, P. S. Sears and A. D. Hodges served as volunteers on the Boston Police Force, doing night duty, in September, 1919, during the police strike.

The death of Darling leaves another vacancy in the Class Committee and the Class will act upon this matter at its meeting on Commencement Day, June 24, 1920.

Through the courtesy of a member of Yale '89, the Class secretary is enabled to send with this Bulletin a transcript from the Yale Alumni Weekly of its account of the Harvard-Yale '89 amenities at the Thirtieth Anniversary in June 1919.
